About the family

Jean and Marie Tremblay have lived in their three-bedroom apartment on Saint-Laurent Boulevard for eighteen years. Both are retired educators — Jean was a high-school geography teacher and Marie spent her career as a French-as-a-second-language instructor at Cégep du Vieux-Montréal, where many of her former students were international newcomers. Their two grown children have moved out, and the couple began hosting Vanmates students in the autumn of 2022 to keep the house lively and share their love of Montréal with new arrivals.

Marie cooks dinner at home most evenings — guests are warmly invited to join. The family speaks French at the table and gladly switches to English whenever a new guest is finding their footing in Québec.

The home

A second-floor flat in a triplex with hardwood floors, two large windows, and a private balcony overlooking the back lane. The guest room is fully furnished — a queen bed, work desk, reading lamp, shared closet, and standing wardrobe. Wi-Fi (Vidéotron 1 Gbps) covers the entire apartment. Guests share the bathroom with the family. Laundry is included. The Mile End neighbourhood is famously walkable, with Bagel Etc. and Saint-Viateur a few blocks away, the Métro Laurier station six minutes on foot, and Parc Lafontaine a short ride south.
